New World Resources launches Czech version of website

AMSTERDAM (17 August 2009) – New World Resources N.V. (NWR), Central Europe's leading producer of hard coal, announces the launch of the Czech-language version of its website at www.newworldresources.eu today.

"While NWR has its headquarters in Amsterdam, the company has numerous business activities and thousands of employees in the Czech Republic. It has therefore decided to accommodate requests from our Czech shareholders, our Czech trading partners and the Czech media for current information," said Petra Mašínová, Head of Corporate Communication. A Polish version of the website is in an advanced stage of preparation.

The website is divided into a number of sections covering the company and its production activities, particularly coal mining and the production of coke.

Corporate responsibility is discussed in a separate section, where visitors can find information about safety, with a special focus on working underground, and information about the company's activities regarding the environment, particularly remediation and recultivation projects of mining sites. The section also includes an overview of sponsorship and charitable projects.

"We have focused on making the website easy to navigate, so that everyone can find the information they are looking for," added Mašínová.

The Investor Relations section will remain in English only for the time being.

The new website also has links to the websites of NWR's subsidiaries: OKD, a.s., OKD, OKK, a.s., NWR ENERGY, a.s., and NWR KARBONIA Sp. z o.o.
